Boycott the Jute Bagging.

The able managers of the jute bagging trust have stirred up a bigger fuss than they intended to. The other trusts have racked along in a quiet way, robbing and plundering the people to any extent that suited their convenience, but the robbers who are engaged in manipulating the jute bagging trust have succeeded in getting up a discussion that has alarmed the country.

The trouble with the bagging trust lies in commanding the cotton planters of the south to stand and deliver them struck a parcel of people who are ready to organize in their own defense. This spirit, which originated in the grange movement, and which has been fostered by the various district and county agricultural associations, has been fully developed by the Farmers' Alliance.

The alliance is one of the most powerful organizations in the country. The New York Sun would describe it as a trust, and, so far as combination is concerned, it is a trust, but it is not a trust organized for the purpose of robbing or oppressing anybody; it is an organization for the purpose of self-defense and protection.

The alliance was the first obstacle with which the bagging trust robbers had to deal; but it has met another equally as powerful in the shape of the cotton underwriters belonging to the marine board. These insurance men, taking advantage of the situation, have adopted resolutions (which we have noted before) to the effect that they can not afford very much longer to insure cotton wrapped in so insufficient and unreliable a material as jute bagging.

A few months ago, such a declaration would have been received by the farmers as in the nature of an attack, but now it affords another reason why they should boycott the bagging factories, and wrap their cotton in coarse cloth made out of the staple itself. This would not only cheapen the insurance, which falls on the producer, but would create a new demand for the fibre to the extent that the cotton bagging would be used. It is notorious that all the disastrous cotton fires that occur, originate in American cotton, and this fact, no doubt, has its effect on the price of the staple.

As we have said before, and as we will probably say again, if the southern planters will take advantage of the situation as it exists today, they will be in a position next year to thank their stars that the jute bagging robbers stopped them in the road and demanded their purses.

The farmers who have obligations should meet them promptly, and then, when this is done, boycott the jute bagging.

EDITOR MURAT HALSTEAD is of the opinion that the president's letter of acceptance betrays a presumptuous disposition. The president's equitable disposition will be the death of Halstead yet.

The republicans appear to be astonished to find that President Cleveland neither dabbles like a dabbler nor goes backward like a crowshaw.

The Same Old Boston.

Boston is a progressive city in material blessings, and it cannot be said that she is spiritually at a standstill, but she is today as intolerant and bigoted as she was in the seventeenth century.

In the good old times it was the rule in Boston for the majority to make it hot for the minority, and this custom, with certain modifications rendered necessary by our advance in civilization, holds good in this day and generation. It has been said of the first Bostonians that they came to this country to enjoy their own rights and to prevent everybody else from doing the same. So while they were howling for religious freedom they stripped and whipped and hanged the Quakers, and persecuted the Baptists.

The descendants of these intolerant people show the same old spirit. They have just released from prison, after a year's confinement, a street preacher named Davis, whose only offense was preaching on Boston common in violation of a city ordinance. During the first six months of his imprisonment Davis was treated like a felon, and his health was seriously injured.

Now, this course is not worthy of a great city in this enlightened age. It may be a nuisance for a preacher to collect a crowd of tramps on the common, but the penalty should be adjusted to the offense. Davis did nothing to justify his imprisonment for a year—nothing to make it necessary for the authorities to treat him like a dangerous felon.

The whole business is simply disgraceful. It is an outburst of the old Boston spirit of intolerance. It is an effort to inject the nineteenth century into the nineteenth. It cruel, stupid and un-American.

There is a new issue between the republican and the democratic parties. It is the trusts issue. The republican party, through Brother Blaine, believes that they are private affairs with which the people have no concern, while the democratic party, represented by President Cleveland, believes that the trusts and monopoly combinations are not only impositions on the people, but menaces to the safety of the republic.

Very Personal and Very Silly.

Since Editors Pulitzer and Dorseimer had their bitter newspaper squabble, a couple of years ago, the country has enjoyed a rest from this sort of warfare.

It is THE SENSE IN SHOOTING "Tippencee." It takes "Tyler too" to make the battle cry worth anything, and the republican and the democrat are pitted against each other.

The Globe-Democrat printed sensational sketches from Arkansas conveying the impression that the negroes were bold and arrogant. The Republic and Editor McCullagh, of the Globe-Democrat, of St. Louis.

The Globe-Democrat printed sensational sketches from Arkansas conveying the impression that the negroes were bold and arrogant. The Republic and Editor McCullagh, of the Globe-Democrat, of St. Louis.

the facts, and called Editor McCullagh "a moral idiot."

In reply to this charge Editor McCullagh mildly said that Editor Jones was "an arrant coward and a terrible liar," who had stood "as much unresisted horsewhipping as any man could endure without becoming more or less of an invalid." He also went on to say:

Charles H. Jones, the author of the article to which you refer is a jockey I recently imported into this city from Florida. He poses here, as he has posed elsewhere, as "a southerner" but in spite of his pretensions, the cornish tint of his abdomen shines through the warp and woof of his trousers and a shirt of June, or as a recent visitor wrote, "with blushing, as a blackmail sheet in this city, under the name of the Avalanche, I deem it proper to give to the public full details."

Jones went to Florida a few years ago as a radical book-peddler with the bronchitis, and left Florida a few months ago as a democratic country editor with the big-head.

Of course, Editor Jones was not going to stand such talk. He came back at his antagonist more vigorously than before, and suggested that if Editor McCullagh would be sent to an asylum for moral idiots the entry on the books would read as follows:

Number 2,752. McCullagh, Joseph B., age fifty-nine (?) habit of body, corpulent and bloated; of life unfit for entry see secret memorandum book A, page 276, book in Dublin, but has sympathetic features, is a man of good character, no original occupation, was an painter; religion, none; politics, none (once pretended to be a democrat, but became a republican in connection with a successful newspaper fight for entrance into a whisky ring); symptoms, the usual but aggravated in the extreme. Family history: Patient refused to give it, but it appears from family name, McCullagh, name of wife, Irish (see O'Brien's Irish dictionary "son of a Fox") that patient has hereditary mental scruples.

Jones was to Florida a few years ago as a radical book-peddler with the bronchitis, and left Florida a few months ago as a democratic country editor with the big-head.

It is evident that the jute bagging trust have stirred up a bigger fuss than they intended to. The other trusts have racked along in a quiet way, robbing and plundering the people to any extent that suited their convenience, but the robbers who are engaged in manipulating the jute bagging trust have succeeded in getting up a discussion that has alarmed the country.

These insurance men, taking advantage of the situation, have adopted resolutions (which we have noted before) to the effect that they can not afford very much longer to insure cotton wrapped in so insufficient and unreliable a material as jute bagging.

A few more choice extracts might be noted, but our readers have doubtless had enough. People will not feel disposed to take any stock in the abusive charges made by the St. Louis editors against each other, and they will regret to see two great and enterprising newspapers filled with such ill-natured and silly stuff. If Editors Jones and McCullagh know what asses they are making of themselves in the eyes of the public, they would follow Sam Jones's advice, and "quit their meanness," and settle down to business.

It is to be observed that the illness of the old Roman, however severe it may be, doesn't interfere with the vim and vigor of his democracy.

It appears from his letter of acceptance that President Cleveland is proud of the work of his administration. Well, as a good democrat he has a right to be proud of it. Honest men in all parts of the country are proud of it, and they propose to continue the good work by re-electing Cleveland.

General Harrison's Letter.

If the party friends of General Harrison have expected from him a letter indicating strength and individuality, they are doomed to bitter disappointment. The labored document which appears in another column is utterly devoid of any such characteristics.

The letter is a studied effort to find a sure footing upon a platform with many planks of which the author of the letter is not in sympathy. The tariff question, according to the republican plan to keep it prominent in the campaign, holds the first place in the letter. The discussion of this question here is weak when compared to the discussion of the same subject in Mr. Cleveland's letter, and a perusal of it leads to the reflection that it would have been far better for the party had the writing of this portion of the letter been left to some of the abler republican leaders. General Harrison admits all that Mr. Cleveland claims for a judicious reduction of the tariff scale, then bases all entirely willing that necessary reductions should be made, but he prefers that they should be made by republicans; just as he is willing that the public offices should be filled, but prefers that they should be filled by republicans.

ANNOUNCEMENTS.

MR. CLARK HOWELL JR., is announced as a candidate for re-election to the house of representatives subject to the democratic primary to be held September 12, 1888.

I am a candidate for representative and want the support of my fellow citizens.

I am not in favor of changing the "local option" law.

I am opposed to the sale of the state road, and in favor of leasing the same so as to guarantee to Atlanta a distinct and competitive system.

I am against all monopolists or trusts, because they are a curse to the public and legitimate business and the welfare of the people.

I am in favor of extending the Marietta and North Fulton line to the city of Atlanta.

I will vigorously oppose any change in the law of paving of the city, as the same depends entirely on the consent and co-operation of parties directly interested.

I am in no combination, and have not received the endorsement of any faction or organization in the city.

I am running on my own merits, and I think that the fact that I was born and reared in Atlanta is a sufficient guarantee that I will be faithful to the interests of the city.

The same happy results have accompanied my treatment for all other rectal diseases and FISTULA IN ANO.

This dredged bougher yields like a charm to a rectal disease procedure which has never failed to cure when patients have been treated by intermediaries. I extend a cordial invitation to all who may need my services in this specialty, and have the funds to pay for my best services, to come to some of which I have been known to practice.
Notice my address.

To the friends of Captain HARRY JACKSON announce him as a candidate for the Legislature from Fulton county, subject to ratification by the Democratic Primary, September 12th, 1888.

With the authority to assume the name of W.
VENABLE as a candidate for the Legislature
from Fulton county, subject to the democratic nomination.

John F. O'NEILL announced as a candidate for the house of representatives from Fulton county to the democratic primary if one is held.

I announce myself a candidate for the legislature,
subject to the democratic primary, September 12, 1888.

W. J. GARRETT,
Sep. 12th.

THE PRIMARY.

Five Candidates in the Race For the Legislature.

All White Democrats Can Vote—A Complete List of the Voting Places and Managers of the Election.

The primary election to-day for the nomination of representatives to the lower house of the general assembly promises to be one of the most interesting political fights in the history of Fulton county.

There are just five candidates.

Messrs. Clarke Howell Jr., William H. Venable, James F. O'Neill, Henry Jackson and
W. J. Garrett.

The names of these gentlemen will be nominated.

Their names will appear in tomorrow's Constitution.

The people should remember that all white democrats whose names appear upon the last local option registration list—and all white democrats who are qualified to vote for state officers have a right to vote in the primary today.

Bear this in mind.

All white democrats have a right to vote in the democratic primary today.

It is not necessary to be registered to vote in this primary.

You must register in order to vote in an election—but you can vote in a primary nomination without registering.

The object of the primary today is simply to nominate the candidates for the legislature.

Vote in the ward in which you live.

Vote in the county precinct in which you live.

Don't forget this.

LADIES—GENTLEMEN.

Dyspepsia and Fellow Citizens.

The market seems to have an upward tendency on all staple groceries, especially on lard, and while this increase is going on we would suggest that you must look to the quality of lard you are buying, and should you have poor bread, it might be your lard. We sell nothing but the very purest lard, such as Hughes & Tagg's the genuine O.
K.; both are absolutely pure and we guarantee every pound sold. We have just received a fresh lot of lemons, only 25 cents per dozen. Monday and Tuesday we will receive a fresh lot of Dove and Pheasant Figs. Come early, as they only stay a few hours. Every second day we receive 20 pounds of Dr. Alexander's pure Ayrshire and Jersey butter.
Another shipment of fancy cooking Raisins, Citrons and Currants will arrive on Tuesday, prices right.

If you want a bulk Catup as fine as the best, call and examine our goods, either by the quart or gallon.

Oysters are now in R they soon will be, and if you want fresh Boston Butter Crackers, you must call on us.

In a few days we will have an extra quality, pure Vermont Maple Syrup in stock. For one week we will sell our famous Rijano Coffee to those who have never used it. For the low price of 30 cents per pound. Just for one week.
